

“Residential PV Market in Japan 2009”

– May 2009 –

RTS Corporation published a report on the residential PV system market in Japan. Residential PV application accounts for more than 80 % of Japan's annual installed capacity. In 2009, METI, Ministry of Economy, Trade and Industry, newly started the Residential PV System Subsidy Program. It is expected that residential PV market will significantly increase because the annual market of residential PV system kept the size of 170 to 200 MW level since 2006 without any subsidy by the national government. This report provides you with a comprehensive overview of the residential PV market in Japan for a better understanding of PV business opportunities and risks with figures and tables.
